

Teamwork & Teampay Cards

More than 20 different activities, plus an over-sized deck of playing cards!

Teamwork and Teampay Cards were developed in the USA by Jim Cain. It is a collection of more than 20 different activities from introductory ice-breaker games and opening activities, to short problem solving jolts, and puzzles. With this deck of cards you will be able to facilitate over twenty powerful team and community building activities.

You can use the Teamwork and Teampay Cards with young people in education, team members in new or developing teams, and with first level supervisors and managers to build strong, high-performing teams. You will find an activity in here that can be suitable for working with young children to senior executives - the perfect portable resource for when you need an engaging activity to help develop a team.

In terms of variety and application, this is one of the most cost effective activity sets we have seen, and you should have one in your library of training resources!

In addition to the 52 large (20cm x 13cm) playing cards in a typical deck, this collection also includes additional debriefing cards, puzzles, challenges, ice-breaking questions, character building activities, games and instructions for helping you make maximum use of this versatile resource. The cards also contain some useful and inspirational quotes, personal values and character descriptions that could be used in a variety of coaching and team development contexts

Teamwork and Team Play cards are great for -

- Ice-breakers and programme openers
- Learning about team roles, values & culture
- Team building
- Developing team planning & task achievement skills
- Team briefing & supervision
- Problem solving
- Furthering decision making skills
- Working on group management
- Improving performance and the ability to work with conflict
- Innovation skills
- Working on negotiation and building trust

“The Teamwork & Teampay material is unbelievably flexible and effective. With hundreds of activity potentials the cards offer hours and hours of training/learning potential. I have used them recently with recruitment agencies, training facilitators, blue chip and FTSE organizations as well as offenders. They offer a wealth of dialogue, team reflection, bonding and exploration. I particularly like the feedback cards, they offer a great resource in getting direct responses to the session, group involvement and dynamic of the company in an honest open manner.”
